SERVING THE MONTEREY PENINSULA INCLUDING FORT ORD

Vol. 28, No. 34, Wed., August 7, 1974 | 665 Broadway Seaside, California 93955 Area Code 408: 394-6632 | 10 cents per copy; $7.50 per year by mail

Police Add New Dimension--Crime-Tip Telephone Line

Seaside police have added a new dimension to their crime-fighting arsenal, the CRIME-TIP TELEPHONE LINE. By dialing 394-8531, ext. 43, good citizens who have information, but don't want to get involved, can offer that first lead, particularly in narcotics cases, for police to get started with.

Police Chief Ben Cooper says the department welcomes any kind of information about possible crimes, even if the reporting party doesn't have full details. Such things as reports of narcotics dealing, sales in a neighborhood of hot merchandise or a crime-involved car's license number are some of the kinds of information police might use. Chief Cooper believes there are many citizens who have information, but have a fear of being seen with a police car in front of their home, or are afraid of being investigated for a crime themselves if they call the police.

The new line will be completely impersonel and the caller will not be questioned directly with no way available to trace the call. Cooper says similar lines in other cities have worked successfully and that the Seaside police have received a number of good leads from state and national narcotics tip lines already in service.

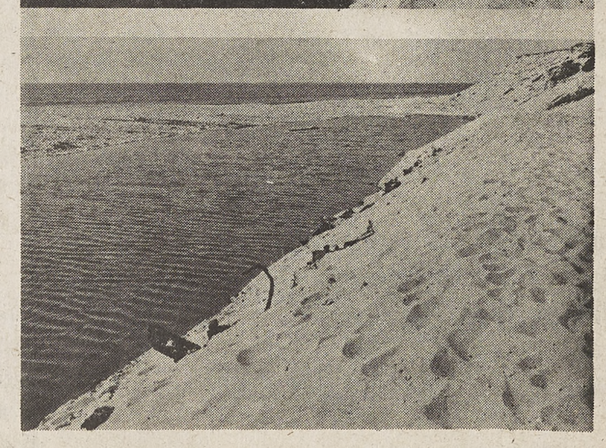

A local line will provide information faster, rather than reliance on national networks or the mail.

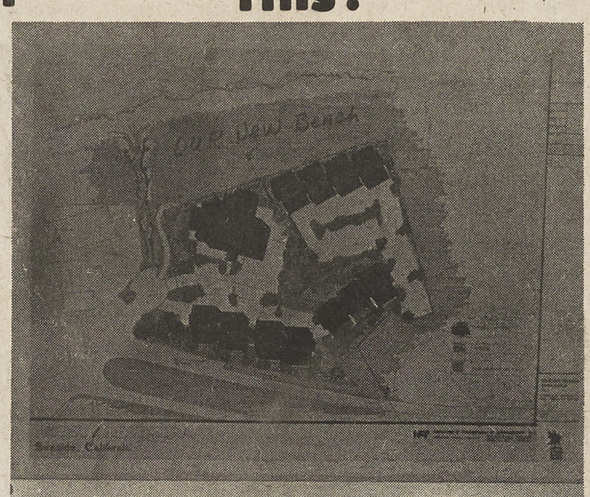

Remember, phone crime tips to 394-8531, ext. 43 with no strings attached, we want your information not your name. For emergencies, use the regular listed numbers.

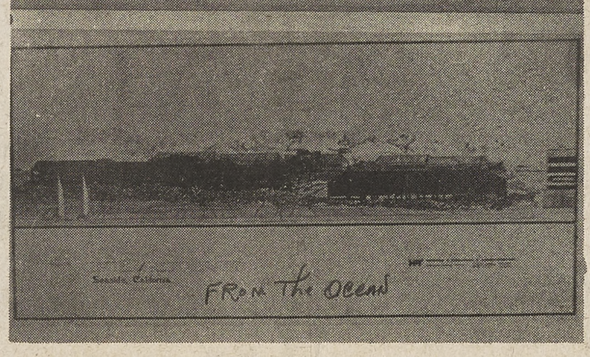

Which Do You Prefer?

This? or This?

A controversy is brewing over the land use of some Seaside Beach property. That space located between The Holiday Inn and the Sand City "City Limits" marker.

This property, at present, is the focal point of much conjecture, imagination, and in some instances, down right lies.

Because of the turmoil, The Seaside POST visited the property in question and found the following:

The property is not being used. During a thirteen day period, only five persons were seen walking along the beach property. Observations were made between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

The water is extremely dangerous because of the undertow and information has it that two citizens have lost their lives by attempting to defy the warnings. This has been within the past two years. There may be records of others.

It has become a gathering point for debris, (discarded tires, boards, coffee cups, bottles, cans, etc.)

Walking in the area can be extremely hazardous for children and some adults, in that there are rusted sharp pieces of metals imbedded in the sand banks.

To make this a habitable beach, the tax payers would have to spend thousands of dollars which would cause their taxes to skyrocket.

ON THE OTHER HAND:

The citizens of Seaside have the opportunity to get rid of an eyesore and bring to Seaside a business badly needed to attract some of the tourist dollars.

With this business, the City of Seaside will provide its citizens with employment for hundreds of people. People in the construction industry, cooks and bakers, maids, bellmen, secretaries, receptionists, clerks, etc., will be provided with permanent employment, thereby taking people from the taxeaters rolls and placing them on the tax payers rolls.

The revenue from this establishment would reduce your tax dollars.

AND BY SO DOING The City Fathers may be saving the life, or lives, of a deserving citizenor child, by eliminating another hazard.

Guest Editorial

By Lou Haddad

Julian Camacho, Democratic candidate for Congress, has his own "Watergate" problem. Or problems.

This writer wrote an editorial concerning Camacho some months ago stating that the apparent reason he voted against Seaside's K-Mart application as a member of the Central Coastal Commission was because the city officials had not supported him in his 1972 election try. He cornered this writer in Seaside city hall one day shortly after the article appeared in the paper; punched me in the chest with his forefinger and said that he had read my article with interest but didn't agree with my reasoning.

I asked him why he couldn't vote with the majority in approving the application, and he said that he just didn't like big companies. He stated that the big chains gobble up the mom and pop operation, and that the small operations couldn't exist with this type of competition.

I told him that if he was successful in getting elected to Congress, and while there if he voted his personal feelings rather than what his constituency wanted, that he would be a one term congressman. I asked him specifically if he felt that jobs in the construction trades as well as in the "large companies" themselves didn't have an overriding effect on hi vote, and his answer was that he just "didn't like big com panies".

Another issue which he was involved in and one in which his ultimate action perhaps reflects upon character was the convention center slated for the City of Santa Cruz. The application came before his commission, and he ired the labor unions by voting against it.

Pulled on the carpet as a result of his vote, he told union officials that his main objective was to "get elected", and that since some 3000x students at the University of California at Santa Cruz were against the project (many of them registered voters), and many local environmentalists opposed it as well, he felt that his negative vote would cultivate their votes. This sounded logical, politically speaking, but do we need more of this kind of government? Would he reverse his philosophy once he is elected? Is he really for labor? Can we take a chance on electing this caliber of individual to an important office such as Congressman?

This type of tactic smacks of hypocrisy. What this congressional district needs is good old fashioned honesty in government. So the question now is: Are we getting it at the present time with the Congressman who serves us now?

"Big companies" not only provide jobs, but they also provide the consumer with competitive prices, giving the low income person a break. Convention centers provide jobs as well as sales tax and other revenues for city treasuries, taking a burden off the property tax.

We know Congressman Burt Talcott, and he has always levelled with the people in his district. His seniority in Washington served him, and us, well in that he has been able to bring hundreds of millions of dollars of federal aid to his district, including 1.6 million dollars for Santa Cruz's convention center. In addition, he has gone to bat for retention of Ft. Ord when there was congressional clamor to close military installations, which is contrary to what Camacho advocated when he stated that it may be best to close Ft. Ord.

What would happen to the local economy if that happened and hundreds of job-holders at Ft. Ord were turned out to compete for the few jobs which are available on the peninsula?

Fort Ord Now Open Weekends For Upland Game

The Rod and Gun Club Wildlife Conservation Committee has announced that Fort Ord is now open on weekends for hunting of upland game. All hunting is by reservation and is restricted to shotgun only.

In order to hunt on Fort Ord you must have a current California Hunting License and a Fort Ord Wildlife permit. Permits are available at the checking station located in Building 123 behind the Rod and Gun Club in East Garrison.Permits are $4.00 per year for active and retired military and DOD civilians; for all others permits are $3.00 per day. The funds collected through these permits support the entire conservation program on Fort Ord, which includes building water guzzlers for quail, stocking of lakes with fish, andsurveys of wildlife numbers and distribution. Advance reservations are required for all persons hunting.

Applications for hunting are available at Building 124, East Garrison, Fort Ord Rod and Gun Club daily from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and on weekends from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Drawings are held on Tuesdays for each coming weekend. The reservation can accommodate 100 hunters and no one has been turned away yet. All hunters must check in and out through the Wildlife Checking station. Hours of operation are 4:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The wildlife management on Fort Ord is excellent, with all types of game healthy and plentiful. Rabbits are currently in season and hunting has been excellent. The number of dove and quail indicate those will be exceptional seasons. The hunter supported wildlife program on Fort Ord is one of the most efficient in the state.

Hunting is open to everyone and supports on-going wildlife conservation. Come out to Fort Ord and enjoy an excellent hunt and help preserve our wildlife.

CTA Urges Improvement In Quality Of Education

Dropping pupil enrollments should be a "golden opportunity" for school districts to improve the quality of education, two experts from the California Teachers Association (CTA) testified in San Francisco recently.

In testimony before the State Board of Education's Management and Evaluation Commission, Drs. John H. Bright and Oscar Anderson stressed:

1. Now is the time for school districts to establish management practices that lead to quality education by retaining new and experienced teachers so class sizes can be lowered and cuts in other educational services be restored.

2. Teachers will be demanding to participate in management decisions affecting the quality of education, their professional responsibility, and accountability to their pupils and the public, which the law requires.

3. That the state should increase support for local schools according to their anticipated unit increases as if there had been no enrollment drop.

Bright, executive of CTA's budget, finance and salary department, declared, ". . .the end of frantic expansion and the condition of declining enrollment may be a golden opportunity to review and re-evaluate school programs and management practices."

He pointed out that due to teacher unemployment, now is the time to invoke the highest preparation standards, and urged that a major managemeent function should be to make sure there is effective teacher participation in educational decisions.

"We are vitally concerned that the CTA will continue to work toward alleviating the anguish created by reduced student population and toward utilizing the opportunities the new trend offers for improved education," he declared.

"The public school system's goal is to provide high quality educational programs for students. The number, experience and training of teachers is a primary determinant of this quality," he stressed.

However, Bright charged that although qualified to know what is needed to provide quality services, teachers generally have "no meaningful voice and no control over the resources to be made available."

Bright said management practices most likely to increase both the quality of both administration and education will be those "in which the knowledge of the entire professional staff can be applied to program, development, problem solving and resource selection."

He said it is "no secret" that CTA believes a more effective collective bargaining law than the ("meet and confer") Winton Act should be passed so teachers will "have more formal channels of communication" when seeking agreements.

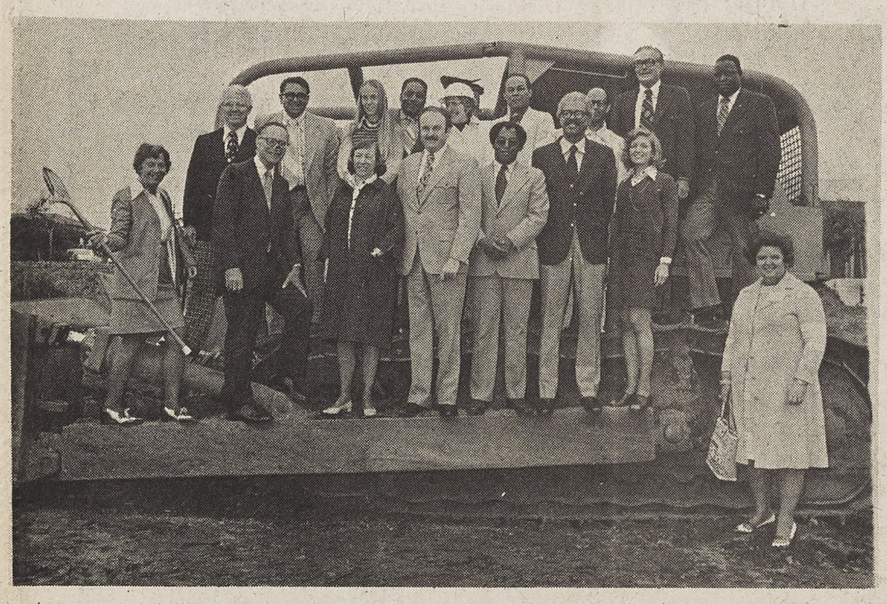

"These will be especially important as we attack cooperatively the new problems of reducing enrollments, where strong disagreements regarding program and financing adjustments can be seen," he said.

Anderson, school finance consultant for CTA pointed out there is a big saving to the state when enrollments drop. He urged that rather than taking this saving, the state should give more assistance to all school districts during this spiraling inflation to help maintain educational quality. He made these suggestions:

.Rather than close schools districts maintain present plants in good repair, and start reducing class sizes to 25 pupils where practical.

.The state and local taxpayers share an increase in funding that would permit this reduction in class sizes.

.Look upon elementary school districts as if no enrollment drop had occurred.

USO Center Looking For Volunteers

Today's Monterey Peninsula USO Center located at the corner of Webster & El Estero Streets, is launching its Fall campaign for Junior VOLUNTEERS Council members.

Young women between 17 and 25, employed or attending school are invited to join. Volunteers will be trained and orientated to the high standards of today's USO affording younr women an opportunity to gain self improvemement and poise while helping to program for others and participate in a worthy community project. The JVs will work in community projects with responsible members for the USO Servicemen's Council and enjoy all the facilities and friendships at the center.

Interested JVs will work closely with Lorraine Smith, executive director promoting JV activities and training. "Programs that are creative, cultural, educational and recreational are our business," said Ms. Smith.-parents of prospective volunteers are welcome to visit the USO Center, meet the staff and acquaint themselves with the goals and purposes of "Todays USO".

Ask Your Congressman

By Burt L. Talcott

The explosive, potentially world-peace shattering situation in the Middle East has been stabilized after months of difficult, often frustrating, negotiations mediated by the United States. Americans should be very proud that our Nation was so trusted by the warring parties that we were asked to intervene and finally helped to organize a tentative solution amenable to all sides which ended the shooting war and brought sworn adversaries to the conference table.

Although marvelling at immediate accomplishments resulting in the Middle East ceasefire, many, including myself, question the long term effects which some of the bargaining agreements may engender. A euphoric climate brought about by the appearance of peace should not prevent us from carefully considering the consequences of the talks, studying the commitments to peace made by our Nation, and pondering the future prospects and responsibilities.

Firstly:

The leaders of Syria, Egypt and Israel should be commended for their tireless pursuit of common grounds for negotiation. After 25 years of bitter hostility, three bloody conflicts, and many declarations of unresolvable animosity the statesmen of these three countries were brought to grips with the reality that war has not mitigated any of their difficulties — to the contrary, it has only aggravated them. At the risk of censure bypowerful political groups within each nation the responsible heads of state agreed to negotiate. However, an independent organized faction was conspicuously absent during the diplomatic conferences of the three governments involved — the Palestinians.

The founding of the state of Israel in 1948 by the United Nations uprooted a nation of non-Jewish Palestinians who are now displaced refugees without a country. Although not officially recognized by worl d bodies as a legal state, the Palestinians are represented by guerilla leaders who have organized themselves with highly dedicated, bitter, violent revolutionaries sworn to the destruction of Israel and the recapture of what they perceive to be their homeland. This large independent group cannot be effectively controlled by Syria or Egypt. Their guerilla operations, conducted from within the Arab nations, could cut the fabric of incipeint peace so delicately woven in the long months of bargaining.

The Palestinians believe their rights and interests have been ignored and quite possibly bargained away. Until Syria, Egypt and Israel come to grips with the extremely volatile problem of the refugees their efforts in the quest of peace could be in vain. It is difficult, if not impossible, to negotiate successfully while ignoring the very real and human problem of residence for millions of displaced persons. This issue is entwined into the daily life and culture of all of the nations of the Middle East and should be addressed by all negotiatoors engaged in peace talks.

Secondly, an entirely different, but no less important consideration:

Egypt and Israel recently proferred $660,000 and $726,000, respectively, to the United States Atomic Energy Commission as a down payment on a $78 million dollar contract for enriched uranium fuel and reactors to improve the energy generating resources of these two nations. This contract was offered by the United States as part of our investment in the economic development and peace for the Middle East.

From all official reports, extremely stringent safeguards and guarantees have been placed on the contractual arrangements made with Egypt and Israel to ensure that the uranium fuel and by-products, will be used only for peaceful purposes. Nevertheless, the dangers of atomic radiation and diversion hang over any discussion of the use of atomic fuels.

It is my hope that the most experienced AEC scientists and technicians will monitor every detail of this operation leaving absolutely no margin for error or diversion and every opportunity for the successful development of alternative energy sources. Should this project prove productive, our Nation would benefit from the knowledge garnered as well as contribute to the economic development of the Middle East. And, unlike most of our foreign aid programs, this effort is being largely financed by the beneficiaries of the project.

We should not be faulted for approaching this atomic energy project warily and cautiously. Our Nation has enormous and critical interests in the Middle East and this action may be a demonstration of confidence by the U.S. needed to cement the peace in this area of the world. This notwithstanding, we should maintain our vigilance.

As I See It

by Mel Vercoe

Some of the people in Seaside are happier than others. They are the ones who favor the beach development. This kind of disparity is not limited to the city of Seaside. Just a few miles away some developers are trying to get a variance from the Monterey City Planning Commission so that they can build a six story building eighty-five feet high near the Cannery Row waterfront in an area zoned for buildings no higher than three stories or thirty-five feet.

If the Monterey Planning Commission turns them down, they could get approval from the City Council. The City Council is made up of five members, any three of which could grant an unlimited height variance to anybody to build anything they wanted anyplace in the City of Monterey.

It is not important that the present Planning Commission and City Council probably will not approve this particular application for a variance. It is important that the pressure for high rise variances will increase until eventually some City Council will grant a variance that will open the door, and from then on Monterey will be just like every other city that finally succumbed to the Almighty Dollar.

In Monterey, as in Seaside, buildings on the general beach front do not do much for the view value of property behind them, and the question comes up - is it economically wise to decrease the tax value of twenty or thirty blocks of property in order to increase the tax return on one block?

As a resident of the City of Monterey I recently gave notice that I intended to try to get an initiative on the next election ballot that would take away from both the Planning Commission and the City Council the power to grant such variances. Without such a change the City of Monterey will be under almost a daily threat of high rise development, and I should think that Council members and Commission members would be glad to have this pressure and suspicion of possible collusion taken off their backs. It might be well for concerned residents of all of the Peninsula cities to consider such protective action.

8 WAYS TO TRIM KILOWATTS OUT OF YOUR COOKING.

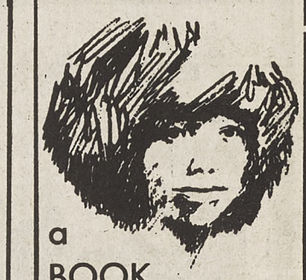

You use more energy in your kitchen than in any other room. Economize with these suggestions:

1. Make sure your oven and surface units or burners are shut off when not in use.
2. Keep oven doors completely closed until food is cooked. Every time you open the door, the oven temperature drops from 25° to 50°. (Oven door windows aid the "peek-a-boo" cook.)
3. Use cooking utensils with flat bottoms and tight fitting covers whenever possible. Be sure pots and pans are the right size for range units or burners.
4. Prepare a complete meal when using the oven—main course, vegetables and dessert. Use foods that cook well at similar temperatures. (Exception: delicate green or leafy vegetables.)
5. Bake and broil from a cold oven start. There's no need to preheat an oven.
6. Thaw frozen meats in refrigerator before cooking. Cook as soon as possible after thawing, and do not re-freeze unless meat has been cooked. A defrosted roast requires approximately 33% less cooking time than a frozen one.
7. Turn off electric surface units a short time before food is done. Food will continue cooking on heat stored in the coils.
8. Never use range or oven to heat the kitchen. That's not its function, and it is costly as well as a waste of energy.

All PG&E electric customers—no matter where they live—get much of their electricity from power plants fueled by scarce oil and natural gas. So it's important for everyone to help save energy wherever possible.

a BOOK that can CHANGE your whole life

Is GOD real to you?
Can you trust HIM?
Is HE near to you?

The Bible tells us we can turn to God for help, for health, for protection. Yet some think these Bible promises are empty. They don't have to be. Today there is a book that is helping many people tune in to the truth of God's nearness, His power and fatherliness. That book is

Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures.

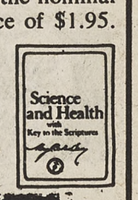

At a low point of poverty, hopeless illness and loneliness, its author, Mary Baker Eddy, saw that God can be trusted and loved. She found that God heals the sick when we love and understand Him. A deep student of the Bible, she discovered a Science based on living the Christianity Jesus taught. She won her freedom from poverty and disease and from her loneliness. Then she wrote down what she learned for the whole world.

By reading and studying this powerful book along with the Bible, men and women throughout the world have found that God can and will help them. These people have solved housing problems, gained opportunities for better education. They've won freedom from poverty, overcome racism. They've discovered what it really means to be the children of God.

You can borrow a copy of Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures from the free lending library at any Christian Science Reading Room, or you can purchase it in paperback.

SPECIAL FREE OFFER

If you'll take this ad to one of these Reading Rooms, you can have your own copy of Science and Health to read for thirty days. If at the end of that time you want to keep it, you just pay the nominal purchase price of $1.95. Or you can return it to the Reading Room with absolutely no obligation.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Any individual, firm or agency who plans to build or place a structure in, on, under, or over the navigable waters of the United States must first obtain a permit from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Such permits are also required for any dredging, filling, or dredge disposal in navigable waters. Regulations governing the administrative procedures on permits for activities in navigable or ocean waters were published in the Federal Register on April 3, 1974 as 33 CFR 209.120.

Navigable waters are any waters which are, have been, or can be used for commercial or navigation purposes. Federal permit authority extends over the entire surface of such a water body. Thus, any work in areas presently or formerly subject to tidal action (below the plane of mean higher high water, including unfilled areas behind dikes) or below the ordinary high water mark of rivers and rivers and streams may require a Corps permit.

The Federal Corps of Engineers permit is required in addition to any State or local permits. Private ownership of land under or beside the water has no effect on the requirement. If work is done in navigable waters as described above without a permit from the Corps, civil or criminal actions (including removal) can be instituted pursuant to 33 U. S. Code Secs. 406, 407, and 1319. Any questions regarding permits for work in navigable waters may be directed to the Regulatory Functions Branch, San Francisco District, U.S. Arny Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco 94102, telephone: (415) 556-5178 or 556-5489.

Increase In Number Of Aluminum Cans Returned Reported

Aluminum can collectors started getting more money for their recyclables in June, and officials at Adolph Coors Company said tiis week the added cash incentive has increased activity at many Coors "cash-for-cans" redemption centers.

Starting June 3, all Coors distributors throughout 11 western states boosted to 15 cents a pound the price they pay for the return of aluminum beer and soft drink containers. That was a nickel increase over the 10 cents a pound they had previously paid.

Reports from the 167 Coors distributors compiled from June 17 through July 14 show a record 84.9 million cans weighing 3,540,571 pounds were returned for recycling. Participating individuals and groups were paid $531,085 for the cans at the new payout rate.

Total collections this year amount to 20,420,509 pounds, a 12 percent increase over the 17703,620 pounds recovered for the same period last year.

"Since our distributors began paying 15 cents a pound for these aluminum containers, we have seen an increase in both the number of people coming into many of our redemption centers and the number of aluminum beverage cans they bring with them," said William K. Coors, president of the regional brewery.

Since the recycling campaign was started in January of 1970, 108,385,006 pounds of aluminum beverage cans - - amounting to more than 2.6 billion actual containers at an estimated 24 cans per pound - - have been collectedand forwarded on to major aluminum producers for recycling into new can sheet, a company spokesman added.

"Our program's main objectives are to contribute to environmental control, both by reducing litter and solid waste, and to conserve world supplies of natural resources and energy," Coors said.

Roberts Wins In Record

National motorcycle racing champion Kenny Roberts started fast, shrugged off a mid-race challenge by Kawasaki's Yvon DuHamel, then opened and held to the finish an 8 second lead to win the recent Kawasaki Superbike International.

Winning, Roberts of Modesto, averaged a record of 92.68 miles per hour around the 1.9 mile Laguna Seca Road Circuit. He rode a Yamaha water-cooled 4-cylinder machine and earned approximately $8,000.

DuHamel of Canada, who competed with a swollen right hand suffered in an earlier weekday spill, placed second, his best Grand National finish of 1974. Gene Romero of Santa Fe Springs, California, placed 3rd on another team Yamaha.

The victory, Robert's second road race of the American Motorcycle Associatiion season, allowed the team Yamaha star to open a 231 point lead over pursuing Gary Scott of Baldwin Park, California.

Scott had won three straight dirt-track nationals going into Sunday's race, but this time could place no better than 8th aboard the only team Harley-Davidson in the 34-bike Superbike International field.

In the morning's 50-mile Junior race, Pat Hennen of San Mateo rode a Yamaha to a runaway win of 88.258 miles per hour.

The 3-day Kawasake Superbike International, a Trippe, Cox Promotion, drew a record crowd of nearly 46,000 people.

MPVS Announces Fall Fashion Show

By popular request, the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services will stage a repeat performance of its "Fun and Fashion" show which proved so successful last year. The new version will be presented on Wednesday, October 23rd, with a tea at 2:30 p.m., at Rancho Canada Country Club, Carmel Valley Road. The Chairman, Mrs. Robert McFarren of Carmel, promises that models will be "of all shapes and sizes" with garments currently selected from the racks of "Sacks, Seaside" - the Thrift Shop owned and operated by M P V S. Mrs. Ed. Ellies of Pebble Beach will act as co-chairman for the event.

As in former years, the Fashion Show is scheduled in advance of the M P V S Fall Sale at the Fairgrounds in November, as a pre-view of some of the attractions in store for that event. The Show is open to all members and guests; tickets will be available on an advance reservations basis, early in October.

At last Friday's meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, Mrs. J. W. Schallerer of Pebble Beach, general chairman of the Fall Sale, called attention of all members to the location of the storage areao to which clothing and all materials for the Sale may be brought. It is located at 546-B Hartnell Street, Monterey, opposite the Post Office, and adjacent to the present temporary quarters of the Family Service Agency.

Also at Friday's meeting Mrs. Joseph Lucero o Seaside, displayed several hand-dressed dolls which will be included in the Fall Sale.

KEEP YOUR COOL AND CONSERVE ENERGY, TOO.

Follow these summer tips for greater comfort and wise use of energy.

1. Use heat-producing appliances sparingly. Turn off lamps, television and stereos when they're not in use.
2. Keep drapes closed on hot days. Light-colored drapes and curtains reflect heat and sunlight outward. For even better heat reflection attach a light-colored shade outside your house over large window areas.
3. Just as good insulation and weatherstripping help keep your house warm in winter, they help keep it cool in summer. Make sure your insulation is adequate.
4. On hot days proper attic ventilation can reduce attic temperatures as much as 50 degrees, so your air conditioner won't have to work so hard. You'll save energy and money.
5. Before you go on vacation, turn your water heater control to its lowest setting. Then, when you return, simply reset the control. That way you won't waste energy heating water when you're not there to use it.
